

It gives me immense pleasure to share with you that the Government of India is honouring Apollo Hospitals with the tribute of a postage stamp. I believe this honour is a felicitation of our pioneering spirit, our commitment to healthcare and unflinching service to the nation.

It is said that recognition is the greatest motivator; appreciation for hard committed work is truly worth treasuring. And when this recognition is bestowed by one's nation itself, it makes it that much more special.

This honour would not have been possible without you. I congratulate each of you personally, for the commitment you have put in to make this possible. And I also hope this accolade will inspire us along the long road to many new frontiers.

God Bless you all.
